AMOUNT NOT SO LARGE

As First Reported According to United States Post Office Officials—Governor Hatfield Offers Services of State Militia for Purpose of Surrounding and Capturing the Bandits.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Hundreds of armed men scoured the hills of Harrison, Pleasant and Doddridge counties during the night in search of the highwaymen who early yesterday robbed Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 1, at Central Station and got away with unsigned bank notes said to have a face value of $500,000. Every available clew was followed by sheriffs. United States deputy marshals and posses of citizens but information reaching here this morning was that no real progress had been made. The hunt was taken up again soon after daybreak, in the hope of locating the rifled mailbags.

Captain T. R. Johnston, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad police received a telephone message at 10:30 o'clock that the robbers had been seen making their way across the country, evidently heading for Sistersville, on the Ohio river. They were being trailed by bloodhounds and a sheriff with a large posse. Captain Johnston was quickly provided with a special train and taking a party of his men immediately started for Sistersville.

Poses working farther down the river were ordered to close in on Sistersville in the hope of reaching the men before they were able to cross the Ohio river.

FLANKING

Movement Planned by Bulgarian Army Commanded By German Generals

AGAINST THE SERBIAN TROOPS

Heavy Artillery Supporting Cavalry Is Now Moving

TOWARD SERB'S FRONTIER

Initial Teutonic Attacks Have Not Won Much Success According to Serbian Advances—Attitude of Greece Still Is Uncertain—350,000 Allied Troops Have Landed at Saloniki.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Oct. 9.—Although the last 24 hours brought no climax in the changed political situation in the Balkans, London begins to view it in clearer perspective. The departure of the quadruple entente diplomats has given finality to Bulgaria's commitment to the side of the central powers, but as yet, there has been no formal declaration of war between Bulgaria and Serbia or the entente.

Excepting an unconfirmed report of a Russian bombardment of the Bulgarian coast near Varna, no overt act of hostilities has been committed by Bulgaria or her new opponents. Nevertheless Bulgaria is reported to be preparing a flank attack on Serbia carried out in conjunction with the Austro-German invasion. She is concentrating cavalry supported by heavy artillery under German command, in the direction of Koestendil, Southwest of Sofia, near the Serbian border.

According to official Serbian advances the Austro-German attack has not won much of an initial success, the invaders having suffered large losses in crossing the Save and now being pinned at the brink of the river. Many Germans are among the prisoners, and some of them are said to be members of a Russian brigade which formerly was operating against Italy.

There still remains a slight element of doubt as to the attitude of Greece which probably will not be dispelled until the new cabinet makes definite pronouncement of its policy. In the meantime the entente powers seem to be satisfied with appearance of continued neutrality and see no reason to believe Greece intends to array herself against them in the impending conflict.

Allied troops to the number of 350,000 are reported to have landed already at Saloniki, and obstacles to their transportation to Serbia have been removed by the prompt action of the Greek minister of communications in the Venizelos cabinet, M. Diamantides, in freeing the railways from Austro-German control.

Russia has made official announcement of the sinking of a German transport by a submarine in the Baltic.

The Dvinsk front still claims greatest attention in the eastern fighting zone. The Germans are now launching an attempt to take the city from the north and their onslaught exceed in violence the previous attacks from the west and the south.

A desperate action has been fought ten miles north of Dvinsk, and the Russians admit loss of part of their trenches. From Dvinsk to the Lidia-Motodechno railroad local successes are claimed by the Russians. On the rest of the eastern front the rapidity of attacks and counter attacks, the capture and recapture of trenches, leaving it in doubt which side is really on the defensive.

German artillery fire continues along the whole of the western front, being directed with particular violence against Loos, to regain which the Germans are making a determined effort and against the left wing of the attacking French forces in Champagne. Speculation as to the next surprise this kaleidoscopic situation may bring forth, which is always active, was given fresh life today by a cryptic remark in the Daily Telegraph, which included an editorial on events in the Balkans, says: "Meanwhile the world is waiting for news of events which, as they come to pass, will once more profoundly change the aspect of the war situation."

WILSON AND FIANCEE HAPPY OVER NEW YORK RECEPTION; ATTEND WORLD SERIES GAME

Mrs. Norman Galt.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Oct. 9.—President Wilson and his fiancée, Mrs. Norman Galt, remained in New York today for a few hours, before leaving for Philadelphia to witness the second game of the world's series. Both were happy over the enthusiastic reception accorded them following their arrival here late yesterday.

Despite the late hour at which the President and members of his party retired last night, they were up early today. The president had breakfast at the house of his friend, Col. E. M. House, while Mrs. Galt, her mother, Mrs. W. H. Bolling, and Miss Helen Woodruff, the President's cousin, breakfasted together in Mrs. Galt's suite at an up-town hotel.

The President and Mrs. Galt arranged to meet at 9 o'clock today and spend the remaining two hours of their stay in the shopping district.

Both the President and Mrs. Galt received scores of telegrams of congratulation at breakfast. Many of these were from foreign countries.

When Mrs. Galt arose she found in her suite a large bouquet of flowers which the President had sent her. She appeared interested in the weather today and when she learned that it was clear and cool both here and in Philadelphia, she said she was anxious to get out of doors, and especially to start for the world's series.

The President and his party, including Mrs. Galt, Mrs. Bolling, Miss Bones, Secretary Tamm and Dr. Cary T. Grayson left here on the President's private car at 11 o'clock for Philadelphia.

National League Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—President Wilson and his fiancée, Mrs. Norman Galt, looked on while the Philadelphia Nationals and the Boston Americans came to grips today at the second battle of the world's baseball series before some 20,000 spectators. With one battle flag captured, the Philadelphia pressed on the second line of trenches to make it two straight games in this baseball warfare. While Manager Carrigan, leading the Boston Red Sox started a counter offensive to even up the series before the second phase of the campaign was commenced in Boston, next Monday. Thousands came early to the ball park, and by noon the back field seats were filled and the crowd still coming and pressing for admission.

The reserved stands filled slowly, though hundreds came long before game time to see President Wilson and his party on their arrival. The presidential box near the Philadelphia players bench off third base glowed with red, white and blue bunting and small American flags. The playing field was in fine shape for play, a brisk wind during the night having fanned most of the dampness from the ground which, a warm sun this morning helped in the drying-out process. The Philadelphia had a brief morning practice and found inner and other gardens to their liking.

"We'll be in there today, with some real hitting," said Captain Luderus, the Philadelphia first sacker. "And it does not make any difference to us who goes in the box for Boston."

Manager Carrigan had three pitchers ready to do his sharp-shooting—Foster, Wood, and Leonard. Foster looked like the choice as Boston's mound-man. Chalmers and Mayer were fit for the firing line for the home folk, with the left-hander Alpha Rixey held in reserve. Both teams took plenty of batting practice, and the crowd cheered as some of the long drives dropped in the back field bleachers. The fielding practice was smart, and there were many pretty stops and throws.

Mayer and Burns were announced as the battery for Philadelphia, and Foster and Thomas for Boston.

At Denmore served up the benders during the Philadelphia batting practice while Mays went to the pitching slab when Boston took their batting exercise. The sun was intensely bright during the fielding practice and the center and left fielders wore smoked glasses. The Royal Rooters with their pennants flying and their brass band playing the Boston Baseball battle song "Tessie" marched into their places near the Boston players' bench while teams were warming up.

Some one cried that the president was coming and thousands quickly stood up while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner." Then everybody had a long wait for the president did not appear. After a few minutes, Mayor Blackenberg with his party arrived and took their places in the mayor's box.

Two score of moving picture men and photographers arranged themselves in front of the presidential box waiting for President Wilson and his party to arrive. By this time nearly every seat in the stands was taken. The umpire came upon the field at 1:52 and held a conference with the managers of the teams at the plate.

Umpire Rigler gave the decisions on balls and strikes; Evans, gave the base decisions, while Umpire O'Laughlin went to left field and Umpire Klem to right field.

At two o'clock the president and his party had not arrived, and the umpires held up the play until they could reach the park.

Meanwhile the players on both clubs grouped themselves back of the photographers to welcome President Wilson.

President Woodrow Wilson with Mrs. Norman Galt and their party arrived at 2:05 o'clock and took their places in the presidential box. The crowd rose and cheered and President Wilson bowed to the ball players an then shook hands with Mayor Blackenberg. President Wilson and Mrs. Galt were given a continuous ovation. President Baker of the Philadelphia club officially welcomed President Wilson, who was then given a new ball to throw to the players. Meanwhile the Philadelphia took their places on the field.

Confidence stimulated by the fruits of victory in the initial struggle for baseball supremacy of the world, was apparent in the camp of the Philadelphia Nationals today and when they entered the second game of the big series it was with a determination to win two straight. Their worthy opponents, the Boston Americans although defeated temporarily at least, were undismayed and were equally determined to even up matters.

Weather conditions were greatly improved and the playing field was in excellent shape. A brilliant sun and a brisk northwesterly breeze combined to dry the rain-soaked ground, making possible a fast and snappy contest.

There was considerable speculation before the game as to who the opposing managers would send to the mound. It was generally conceded that the same catchers, Carrigan for Boston, and Burns for Philadelphia, would work behind the bat. Chalmers, the Philadelphia "big right-hander" was looked upon as the most likely pitching candidate in case of warm weather, but the duties may devolve upon Mayor or Rixey. For the Red Sox, either Foster or Leonard will probably do the twirling.

Although the Phillies have one game to their credit, what little betting there is on the series still favors the Bostonians. There seems to be plenty of Boston money, but the would-be betters are reluctant to give odds of 3 to 2 demanded by the Philadelphia backers.

Several wagers were laid at these figures on the result of today's game. The news that nearly 700 bleacher seats remained unoccupied during yesterday's game because the fans had despaired of securing admittance caused thousands to flock to the grounds today and there was an unprecedented rush for the one-dollar seats. The presence of President Wilson, who was to throw out the first ball, also increased the demand for admittance. The gates had scarcely closed yesterday afternoon, before the enthusiastic bleacherites began to form in line to wait for an opportunity to obtain first row seats today. By midnight the line had grown to several hundred and at 10 a. m. when the gates were opened it extended for blocks. All hands had brought various devices for making themselves comfortable, and despite the chilly wind everyone seemed happy. Vendors of coffee and sandwiches did a rushing business.

Judging from the number of vacant seats at yesterday's game, the ticket speculators did not reap the golden harvest they had anticipated. It was estimated that approximately 300 seats in the grandstand were without occupants and the greater part of the loss undoubtedly fell on the speculators. Few tickets for the games to be played in this city, it appeared found their way into the hands of the vendors and for a time they did a thriving business, sets of three seats fetching as high as fifty dollars. But with the continued rain many fans who had come from a distance disposed of their tickets at fancy prices, mostly to speculators, and went home. Half an hour before the game started tickets to the three games could be purchased for (Continued on Page 2, Oct. 1.)

WATER WAGONS IN PARADE AT CHICAGO TODAY

LARGEST DEMONSTRATION IN CITY'S HISTORY TO CELEBRATE "DR." ORDER.

Closing Saloons Tomorrow But Plans Are Complete to Practically Evade Consequences.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Chicago, Oct. 9.—Restaurant owners and Chicago's hotels prepared today for an unusual rush of business tonight, when the Sunday saloon closing order becomes effective at midnight.

Drinks of all kinds may be purchased before 12 o'clock, and consumed as long as the patrons of restaurants and hotel cafes desire to remain, according to an opinion by Corporation Counsel Folson.

As a result of opinion, restaurant keepers expect a night of revelry equalled only by the New Year's eve celebration in Chicago.

The parade of anti-saloon workers to be held today under the auspices of the Dry Chicago Federation, was expected to be made up of 35,000 marchers. The fact that the demonstration will be the largest ever, held in Chicago was indicated when more than 15,000 hats to be worn by the marchers were sold.

One thousand ministers, priests and rabbis are to lead the parade, which is to be made up of 12 divisions. Water wagons will be prominent among the score of floats.

FIRE'S PROGRESS AT WALHONDING STOPPED BY BRICK BUILDING

Coshocton, O., Sept. 9.—The fire in which Albert Lewis, Utica barber, lost his life at Walhonding Thursday night, for a time threatened the entire village and but for the presence of a brick building in its path the damage would have been much greater.

The buildings destroyed were valued at $7,000. They were the William Johnson livery barn, where the fire started and where Lewis died, the Johnson dwelling, The C. B. Ogel home and barn, and the Hagen home.

William Dodson of Utica, whose team Lewis drove to Walhonding with a traveling salesman Thursday afternoon, arrived in Walhonding yesterday afternoon and took charge of the remains of Lewis. They were taken back to Utica for burial.

almost any amount above their face value of nine dollars. To add to the troubles of the vendors, many of whom were said to be working for a New York concern, fourteen of their number were arrested and several sent to jail in default of bail.

The national commission, the governing body of organized baseball has started an investigation. They had adopted a plan first tried by West Point and Annapolis in their annual football game, and which was said to be successful, that is, to send agents around to purchase tickets from the vendors and then compare the number with the club list. Men who are found to have broken faith with the commission by selling their tickets to speculators, will be barred in the future according to August Herrmann, the chairman.

Manager Carrigan, of the Red Sox, gave most of the credit for the Phillies' victory yesterday to Alexander, although it was freely admitted by the victors as well as their followers, that the breaks played a big part in the result.

"Alexander won his game," said Carrigan. Give him full credit, and don't let any one take it away from him. He pitched a splendid game, but so did Shore. I am satisfied with my team. They did the best they could against grand pitching. We are going to try harder today."

Pat Moran, manager of the Phillies as usual, had little comment but declared that his team looks better now than ever before.

"Breaks count a lot in baseball," he said, "and we got the breaks yesterday. We played the game just like we have played our games all season, and we will try and force the breaks to come our way in every game. We look better now than ever before and with the first game on ice, we have a very good chance to win the world's title."

Some disappointment in the failure of Gavy Cravath and others of the Phillies' sluggers to connect with Shore's offerings was expressed by the followers of the National League champions and a feeling of relief was everywhere apparent that their favorites had one victory to their credit and that Carrigan's first choice pitcher was out of the way for a time.

Rapid Pie Making.
The fastest machine devised for making pies is operated by a foreman and six assistants and will turn out 1,800 pies an hour, according to the World's Work. The machine is provided with eighteen revolving pie holders which move around an oblong table or platform; two crust rollers, one for the lower and the other for the upper crust; a set of four automatic moistening brushes and a pie trimming wheel. The six operators of the machine place the crusts, fill the pies and remove them from the table when the operation of moistening and trimming has been automatically completed. A smaller machine, the working principle of which is similar, except that the table is round instead of oblong, will turn out 600 pies an hour when operated by three pie makers.

ANDERSON WON CUP RACE IN RECORD TIME

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
New York, Oct. 9.—Twenty-one of the fastest automobile drivers in the world today awaited the signal from Starter Fred Wagner in the opening of the 350-mile race for the Astor cup and $50,000 in prizes at the Sheephead Bay speedway.

The day was bright, clear and cool and as the two mile wooden track had entirely dried out a smashing of records was promised by the speed kings.

Among the favorites in the race were Resta, Mulford, Oldfield, Burman, Cooper Rickenbacher and DePalma.

At sixty miles Anderson was leading. His time was 54 minutes, 23 seconds, an average of 104.4 miles an hour. Burman was second and Rooney third.

At 100 miles Resta was leading, his time being 57 minutes and 37 seconds, an average of 104.47 miles an hour. Rooney was second and Anderson third.

Resta was forced to drop out of the race by a broken connecting rod shortly after finishing the first 100 miles.

Anderson led at the 140th mile. His time was one hour, 21 minutes and 19 seconds, an average of 103.3 miles an hour. Aitken was second, and Burman third.

De Palma dropped out at the 266th mile account of engine trouble. He was then fifth in the race.

At the 260th mile Burman, Anderson and Rooney were tied. Their time was 2:31:14, a new world's record.

At the 280th mile Anderson was leading Rooney by less than two miles. Burman was about four miles behind Anderson whose time was 2:43:53, an average of 102.51 miles. The leader was far ahead of the world's record.

At the 300th mile Anderson was leading. His time was 2:55:32 breaking the world's record for 300 miles, made at Chicago. Rooney was second four minutes and 16 seconds behind. Burman was third. Anderson's average time for the 300 miles was 102.56 miles an hour.

Anderson won the race in 3 hours, 24 minutes and 42 seconds, an average of 102.60 miles per hour. Rooney was second.

Heart Instead of Pink.
Praise a boy for his good deeds rather than spank him for his bad ones. Many a parent has tried it, with successful results, as well as pleasant ones for the boy.

Hardheaded business has made a singular discovery. A Pennsylvania railroad superintendent found that posting in public places the faults of his employees failed to reduce the number of delinquencies.

"I'll try a new game," he said. "The failures I shall keep to myself, but the particularly good bits of work done by the men I shall paste upon a bulletin board where all may read."

And the result of this scheme of heart instead of fist? A quick drop of two-thirds in the number of men who required discipline. That was pure gain, and a big one, for the railroad, but the men profited even more. There was a decrease of more than 70 per cent in loss of wages through suspensions.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Watch Your Step.
Science can tell what sort of a person you are from your step. Physicians diagnose locomotor ataxia, palsy, palsy, lumbago and other diseases by the gait. One expert says:

"Watch the man who drags his feet along as if it were an effort. He would be the first into a lifeboat from a sinking ship because he has no heart. The woman with the dragging feet is a whiner."

"Watch the woman who hurries along as if she were anxious to part company with the pavement. Her steps are quick and snappy. She has plenty of vim."

"When you see a woman planting her feet firmly on the ground and walking with a free swing you may be sure she is wholesome, to be depended upon and capable. She will be your friend on rainy days just as much as on more than when the sun shines."—Philadelphia North American.

The Invincible Yaqui.

Against all assaults upon his stronghold the Yaqui Indian of Mexico has proved invincible. For more than a century relentless war has been waged against him by the Mexicans, but they have neither subdued him nor tamed him, and as for conquering him, that is generally admitted, will come only with his extermination. In the campaigns against him the Yaqui's most effective weapon is the poisoned arrow. His bow is made of black palm wood, and the arrows are long, sharp and so poisoned as to cause certain but not immediate death. Horrible suffering follows a scratch from the point, the victim dying in from three to seven days. No antidote has been discovered, although the Yaquis themselves possess the secret of one.—Boston Herald.

Nails.

A nail is a common article of manufacture which is turned out by thousands every hour in the factory and is always absent in every household when it is most needed. Every house is full of nails. The walls bristle with them. The floors and ceilings are full of them. But if you need one to drive into a wall or to help dispatch a box going by express you might as well look for a gold nugget in an ash heap. When by some miracle a nail permits itself to be discovered it is always crooked. The art of placing it on your wife's best mahogany table and straightening it out with a poker in place of the hammer you cannot locate is an art yet in its infancy. Some centuries hence it may reach a development hitherto undreamed of.—Life.

The Oyster's Diet.

Some interesting facts concerning the diet of the oyster have been discovered by the investigations of the English board of fisheries. The experts have found, for instance, that the oyster is an exceptionally dainty feeder, living almost exclusively on a vegetable diet. Seaweed and the minute pine pollen of the water are its staples. It dines, moreover, only between 12 o'clock noon and 2 in the afternoon. During those hours the oyster opens his shell, permits the water to flow through the feeding gill and expels it. The gill extracts the food desired.—Philadelphia Record.

A Reconstructed Man Costs $500.

With exhibitions and catalogues of artificial limbs now brought to notice one gets to calculating the cost of a reconstructed man. Seemingly a little more than $500 would suffice. A pair of artificial legs costs about $150 and a pair of arms about $100. Ears, with drums, etc., cost $75 each; eyes $30 a pair, and so on. Without heart and brain a man is worth about $500. With them—the price might change.—London Chronicle.

Toney of Cincinnati Leads Pitchers With a Better Percentage of Wins than Alexander.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Chicago, Oct. 9.—For the eighth time in his career, Ty Cobb is champion batter of the American league, according to averages published here today. Beginning in 1907, the Detroit player has led the hitters in every season except in 1908, when the official scores gave Criss of St. Louis the palm, he having batted .341 in 64 games to Cobb's .324 in 150.

Today's Cobb's average for the season just ended is .369.

In stolen bases, the Georgian has set a new league record at 97 for the season. The old mark for the American league was 88 credited to Milan of Washington in 1912.

Famous Temple and Statue.

Since about the year 752 the grand ceremony of Kaigen, or "opening the spiritual eye of the statue," has been celebrated but five times at the temple commonly known as the Daibutsu of Nara, at Tokyo. The original statue has suffered grievously since 752. Once, in 855, the head dropped off. Since then it has suffered twice from fire, and upon each occasion the head was destroyed. The statue in its sitting posture measures fifty-three and a half feet, the length of the face being sixteen feet. The two Bodhisattvas flanking the Daibutsu are as high as thirty feet. The temple is 188 feet in frontage and 108 feet in depth and is known as the largest wooden building in Japan, though it is much smaller than the original, built 1,100 years ago. It was not built to protect the statue from being exposed to the weather, but the statue was made to enshrine as the chief figure of the temple.

ALL SET FOR BIG GAME AT WEHRLE PARK

Everything is in readiness for the big game tomorrow afternoon at Wehrle Park between the McDaniel team and the Mideleys of Lancaster. The game will start promptly at 2:45 o'clock.

Both of these teams have defeated the Wyandots of Columbus and the Lancaster club scored five more points than did Newark. As a result, the two teams have been trying to figure out which team has the advantage in the Sunday contest.

The Newark team will have its full strength in the field and the outlook for some great forward passing by Orr and Davis.

With good weather the crowd should be a record breaker. The brand of football is worthy of a large attendance.

The River Through Paris.

Small two decked steamers ply on the Seine as it twists its way through Paris. You can catch one every fifteen minutes, and it costs 2 sous (2 cents) to go from one end of the city to the other, a distance of perhaps eight miles, and then once outside the city walls you pay 2 sous more. The Seine river is narrow, dull green and slow moving; not majestic at all, but made picturesque by the life that is upon it. In Paris it is commerce and artistic beauty combined that border its banks. Within the boats that are moored to its piers are so many different kinds of existence—baths, hospitals, washhouses, homes, restaurants and lodgings. People live half above, half under the water, and in some places on the Seine for long distances these boats are moored four abreast and following in line like soldiers on march. These are the flattest of boats. When they come up the river freighted their tops are just at the water's edge. The Seine seldom rises or falls very much, as it is held in its banks by concrete walls.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Military Retreats.

Once at an evening reception in Berlin some one drew the attention of Moltke to a magazine writer who had compared him, after the manner of Plutarch, to all the world's greatest commanders—Alexander, Caesar, Hannibal, Turenne, Marlborough, Frederick, Napoleon, etc. "No," said the great "battle thinker," "I have no right to be compared to such great commanders, for I have never in all my life had to conduct a retreat"—at once the most honorable and difficult operation of war, as the Duke of Wellington himself well knew. The hero of a hundred fights who never lost an English gun, the duke nevertheless knew—none better—that it was to conduct a retreat from Burgos and other places and even to withdraw behind the lines of Torres Vedras till his opportunity again came for making another thrust.—London Illustrated News.

Japanese Economy.

Among the Japanese economy is held to be a high virtue. Two old misers of Tokyo were one day discussing ways and means of saving.

"I manage to make a fan last about twenty years," said one, "and this is my system: I don't wastefully open the whole fan and wave it carelessly. I open only one section at a time. That is good for about a year. Then I open the next, and so on until the fan is eventually used up."

"Twenty years for a good fan?" exclaimed the other. "What sinful extravagance! In my family we use a fan for two or three generations, and this is how we do it: We open the whole fan, but we don't wear it out by waving it. Oh, no! We hold it still, like this, under our nose, and wave our face!"—Everybody's.

Simple Air Pressure Test.

Any one can demonstrate the pressure of the atmosphere by the simple experiment which follows: On the flat of an iron lay a thin sheet of rubber—part of an old tobacco pouch will do. Place a small, thin lid containing some wadding soaked in spirits of wine on the rubber and ignite the spirits. Then press a wineglass down tightly over the flame. When the flame dies out it will be found that the two articles are firmly united and may be suspended by a wire, and some time will elapse before they separate. The explanation is that the flame consumes the oxygen in the glass and lowers the pressure when the greater pressure of the atmosphere squeezes the articles together.—Exchange.

RUSSELL BOY IS FACTOR IN CHIEF EVENT FRIDAY

Lexington, Kentucky, October 9.—The Blue Grass stake, the chief event on the card of the Grand Circuit meeting here yesterday, was captured in straight heats by Russell Boy, driven by Edward Geers. Altwood was a contender in the first heat, and Queen Abess in the second and third. Russell Boy was easily the best and had no difficulty in winning. The time in the first heat was 2:03 3-4, which is a record for the race.

The Turkey trot for 3-years-olds, a $3,000 sweepstakes affair, was won by The Colorado Belle in straight heats from Samoor, the only other starter.

In the 2:11 trot, M L J, driven by Murphy, won the last three heats and first money. Barney Gibbs won the first two heats, M L J finishing seventh in the opener and second in the second mile. Nata Prime was placed fifth in the fourth heat after finishing second, because Driver Wright violated the rules. Wayside, in scoring for the first heat, reared and unseated Huckle, behaving so badly that the horse was not allowed to start.

The 2:15 trot went to R F V, which Burney piloted to victory in the second, third and fourth heats after finishing seventh in the opener, which was won by Fair Virginia. The last three heats were easy for the winner. Osborn was set down and McMahon put up behind Tommy De Forest in this race, but as the horse did no better in the second heat Osborn was given back his place and finished tenth in the next heat.

After two heats of the 2:15 pace had been raced the event went over until today. Charlie C winning the opening heat and Peter Worthy the other. The weather was cold and the crowd considerably diminished as a consequence.

Sickness in Metals.

Metals, like human beings, suffer a condition which may be termed "dis-ease." Morbid changes, so to speak, occur in the pieces of metal once in awhile, and frequently these conditions are beyond control. Scientists are at a loss to explain exactly what it is that causes a perfectly sound appearing piece of metal to change its structural strength when not under apparent pressure or action of either mechanical, physical or chemical character. Deficiencies in metal are often overcome by getting a happy medium between sufficient pressure to cause the metal to flow uniformly and a pressure not so great that it will cause complete rupture. But these are mechanical changes. The other changes might be called pathological. The illness of a piece of metal often continues progressively and ends seriously.—New York World.

The Mattress.

Some one has been hunting up the history of the mattress. Its beginning was the collection of rags, husks or reeds which were bound together and thrown anywhere to form a resting place for the limbs and serfs of the rich. It is suggested that their names of shakedown and makeshift were derived originally from the Arabic word "matrah." In the middle ages feather beds found favor with the wealthy and the mattress was not used by them. Inventories of estates owned by the American colonists show that mattresses were then worth $200 each, being made of hair. In England mattresses of rabbits' hair were once used, and vegetable fibers of various kinds have served their turn.

The "Basin" of an Apple.

One end of the apple bears the name of "basin" and contains the remnants of the blossom, sometimes called the eye of the fruit. This part of the apple is deep in some varieties and shallow and open in others. This is the weakest point in the whole apple as concerns the question of the keeping quality of the fruit. If the basin is shallow and the canal to the core firmly closed there is much less likelihood of the fruit decaying than when it is deep, and the evident opening connects the center of the fruit with the surface.

KAT YDID LOSES WHEN EXTRA HEAT FOUND NECESSARY

Coshocton, Oct. 9.—Two of yesterday's final fair races went to extra heats to decide first money. Carl C. and Hurry, in the 2:24 trot, were tied for first after five heats. Carl C. won the deciding heat. The same condition existed at the end of the fifth heat in the 2:15 trot with Mathern Mac and The Katy Did tied. Kathryn Mac won the deciding heat.

Katy Did won the first two heats in 2:19 1-2 and 2:18 1-3, finished second in the third heat, and third in the fourth and fifth heats. The extra heat, won by Katherine Mac slowed down considerably the time being 2:22 1-2.

HEBRON WINS COUNTY FLAG IN CLOSE GAME

Hebron, O., Oct. 9.—In a close game played here Thursday the Hebron baseball team defeated the Alexandria team, contenders for the county championship, by a score of 6 to 5. A splendid attack in the third inning in which five hits were combined with two errors netted the Hebron boys six runs which proved enough to win the contest and the championship.

Atwood pitched for Hebron and allowed seven hits. His support was guilty of six misplays behind him which figured in the five runs scored by Alexandria. Williams pitching for Alexandria allowed seven hits and except in the third inning was accorded splendid support.

Heinie Strawn, pitcher and outfielder for the Newark Buckeye League team played left field for Alexandria. In the fifth inning, his theft of second put him in position to score on a wild throw.

The batting order of the two teams was as follows:

Alexandria—Bishop, ss; Carpenter, 3b-p; G. Bishop, 1b-c; Hammond, 1b; Graham, c-3b; Dyer, rf; Bishop, cf; Williams, p-3b-1f.

Hebron—Brayton, ss; Atwood, p; McFarland, 1b; Ross, c; Nehls, 3b; Butt, lf; Lydick, 2b; Slocomb, rf; Haines, cf.

The score:
Hebron . . . 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 x—6 7 6
Alexandria . . . 0 0 0 0 2 3 0 0—5 7 3

Batteries:—Atwood and Ross, Strawn, Williams, Carpenter and Graham.

WOODSIDE WON GAME.

The football squads of the Woodside school and Central school clashed at White Field Friday afternoon and as far as could be determined from the throng of kids on the field, Woodside won by a single touchdown. The ability of both teams seemed to be confined to argument. More time was spent in arguing with the referee than in playing football.

When Texas Branded Thieves.

Adam was the first man, the very first, to be indicted by a grand jury in Houston. His name, to be more specific, was James Adam. The charge was that he stole, the indictment larceny. He was convicted. This was the sentence: To return to the right if owner the sum of $235, to be given thirty-nine lashes on the bare back in a public place and to be branded with the letter T on the back of the right hand. This all happened in Houston in the spring of 1837. The first book of the records of the legal doings of Harris county is a yellowed and old thing. The first matter written in it is a statement signed by Sam Houston giving authority for the court. It announces that he has appointed Benjamin Franklin judge of the court. The place is given as "the town of Houston, county of Harrisburg, republic of Texas."—Houston Chronicle.

"Homemade."

When the baker or confectioner advertises that his bread or his cake is "homemade" he hopes to attract customers, but many things "homemade" come not quite up to the market standard. There is the skirt, so labored over, so taken apart and put together again, so pulled and pressed, yet rarely with quite the art that "store clothes" have, and the hat or bonnet, call it which you will, it, too, falls short of public promenade styles. There likewise is the "hair cut" for Billy—really it does suggest the guidance of a hollowed out pumpkin, but how about Billy himself and Jenny? Are they "homemade" or "schoolmade"? Do they bear marks of the mother touch and the father guidance? We hope so. Nothing so good as a homemade boy or girl—stronger in character, richer in nature, than any product of any institution.—Christian Register.

Dominion of Canada.

Canadians are accustomed to take expression of the "Dominion" of Canada for granted, but the origin of that somewhat unusual term is known to very few. When the great scheme of Sir John Macdonald was finally realized and the nine provinces grouped themselves together into one great confederation a serious difficulty was presented by the choice of a suitable name. For a time almost a deadlock ensued. At length one old member of parliament rose from his seat and told his colleagues that he had read in his Bible that very morning the words, "His dominion shall be from the one sea to the other." Accordingly he suggested that Canada should be known as the Dominion, or God's Land. The suggestion seized upon the hearts and imaginations of those present, and it was promptly acted upon.—Toronto Globe.

So far as heard from, no crowd of weeping Americans gathered at the pier to see Mr. Dumba off.

It is much cheaper to spend $100,000,000 for preparedness than to spend $1,000,000,000,000 for pensions.

They have talked 4600 miles by wireless, but it is believed to be safe to hold telephone stock a few days longer.

The loan to the allies does not interest the bulk of the people who are concerned merely to see how they can borrow some.

A correspondent writes to know where he can buy a farm for $1000. So far as this newspaper knows, it frequently costs nearly that to buy the automobile garage only.

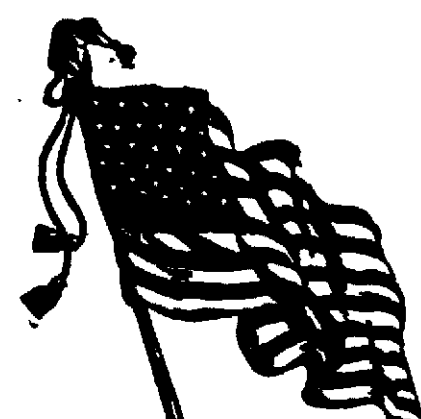

The October wedding season is now on, and it is possible to commit all known varieties of assault and battery on the newly married couple without getting arrested for it.

The observance of Columbus day would become more general if Columbus had not been so thoughtless as to discover America at a date at the tail end of the baseball season.

Now the partisan pirates are seeking to seize the offices under the state board of charities, an institution that never before was regarded as within the domain of political plundering. Talk about seeking a captured town in east Prussia! Let the Cossacks come over into Ohio and take a few elemental lessons.

After appointing George Bope, a lawyer and musician, as factory inspector, the Willis' boy scouts have had charges prepared against him for unbecoming conduct, intimating that he had been partaking too freely of certain viands so as to make a spectacle of himself. Well, the long suffering public seems to be on Bope's side, having in mind the example set by the eleven-gizzards governor, and the Green River bunch at San Francisco.

Builders exchanges throughout the state asked Governor Willis in the event that a new state inspector of workshops and factories was to be appointed, a person acquainted with architecture and practical construction be named. Their answer was the appointment of George W. Bope, a Columbus attorney at odd times and a musician. A Zanesville commission merchant was made chief deputy in the office of the state boiler inspector and a newspaper editor from Logan was named as chief deputy in the workshops and factories department. The new state boiler inspector is a traveling salesman from Hamilton. He has never taken the examination and obtained the license required by the boiler inspection law. Deputies in his department are also without the qualifications prescribed. Efficiency seems to be entirely lost sight of in the mad, even ferocious quest for places for the army of hungry applicants who are besieging the capitol.

Problem of Cheap Rents.

The man who reads many newspapers finds frequent items headed "Houses Scarce," or "Tenements Needed." There are many towns where the lack of houses for working people is a real problem. It often checks their growth.

This has resulted from increased building costs. Material costs 25 to 50 per cent more than ten years ago. Carpenters, masons, plumbers and painters are better paid. Capitalists say there is no profit in putting up houses for rent.

Of course, there are often old houses lacking modern conveniences that can be had cheaply enough. But it is constantly getting harder to rent places without modern plumbing and the like. People will not go into dirty and unsanitary neighborhoods.

Some social workers have become convinced that in towns of much size the working people must expect to live in blocks of houses all joined together. This gives light only at front and back. It seems to take away from the homelike character of a neighborhood the individual home and is more apt to develop a feeling of ownership and pride in the appearance of the property.

As building costs increase, the general result is that people live in smaller space, or go out farther into the outskirts. The working man of today commonly lives in much smaller quarters than were occupied by his father on the old farm. In large cities people manage to adjust themselves to a cramped tenement apartment house life. There is commonly a lack of the room required to swing the traditional cat.

If people will learn to live with less furniture, with few bulky belongings, and pursue the simple life, they can be happy in small quarters. Much can be said for the old-fashioned "love in a cottage" philosophy, only it seems to be only one floor in the cottage for a good many. But it is largely a matter of style and example. One does not feel so cramped, if all the neighbors and one's friends live the same way. The hard working people in moderate sized places may have more room than the fashionables of New York and Chicago.

Mayor of Columbus.

A recent audit of the affairs of the city of Columbus, together with an expert survey of city finances, discloses some interesting facts with reference to the city administration under Mayor George J. Karb, who is seeking re-election under the non-partisan city charter. Among other things that it shows was that the cost of street lighting per each light is 21 per cent less than it was prior to his administration. It shows that the cost of cluster lights is 47 per cent less and that the water rates are 25 per cent lower than they were before Mayor Karb assumed office. Now when the other side of the ledger is scanned there are other interesting facts. For example, water works profits have increased 31 per cent, garbage reduction profits 13 per cent, and market house receipts, 28 per cent. It's a pretty good record on public utilities, a matter in which the voters are naturally much interested.

Of course, all these affairs interest primarily the voters of Columbus and have an incidental interest here as showing what can be done under a good administration. Being so close to Columbus, Newark citizens have interest in other phases of the city administration and incidentally in the city campaign.

The Newark people who go to Columbus know that every since George J. Karb has been mayor of the city, Columbus has been a peaceful city. Its appearance has improved year by year. Its streets are better lighted, better policed, cleaner and in better repair than they were before Karb became mayor. It is gratifying to learn that these things have been accomplished with no increase in cost. Columbus has a lower city tax rate than any other large city in the state.

We often wonder whether the citizens of Columbus understand that the people who come to Columbus expect them in justice to their visitors as well as themselves to continue the best administration they have had in our recollection. A good administration is the best advertisement a city can have. We hope Columbus voters appreciate this fact.

Questions About Ohio.

Auditor of State Donahey has just issued a pamphlet of answers to "Ohio Interrogation Points," the list of questions on Ohio's constitution, government, laws and history which appears in the Auditor of State's report for 1914. This little pamphlet on Ohio contains more information about the Buckeye state than can be secured from all the reference works in the average public library. It should be in the hands of every teacher in Ohio and should be used by the history and civics classes in every school and college in the state. This interesting and instructive handbook on Ohio government, past and present, should be read by every voter. A copy will be mailed free by the Auditor of State to any citizen of Ohio on request.

Under the Democratic workmen's compensation act every cent collected from insuring employers remained in Ohio either as payments to injured workmen or as state deposits in Ohio banks to serve the double purpose of assisting trade and commerce and of yielding interest to the public treasury. Under the emasculating decision of Willis' superintendent of insurance, 78 cents out of every dollar paid for premiums will go either to New York or to Europe.

The farmers who are holding their wheat for $1.25 a bushel would not be hurt a bit by going to town and buying a new fall hat.

Fermented or Unfermented.

(Philadelphia Record.)
The mayor of a near-by city in New Jersey and the pastor of a church there located are in a legal dilemma, involving interpretations of the sacred and profane laws and the Constitutions of the State and the United States. The pastor insists that the ritual of his church requires the use of wine at communion; but alas, the town has gone bone-dry. No fermented beverages may be bought or sold there, nor brought in from the still-irrigated sections of the State, nor "sold or otherwise disposed of" in the town. The suggestion of the apparently sympathetic mayor that the pastor do as other pastors have done, namely, substitute grape juice, was set aside. Webster defines "wine" as "fermented juice of the grape"—and that settles it. The pastor must either act contrary to his conscience or contrary to law. Unfermented grape juice is not wine. But how if the law should be broken, not in the ordinary sense of the word, but literally? If it should be "busted," annulled and expunged? The Federal Constitution forbids Congress to enact any law respecting the establishment of any religion "or prohibiting the free exercise thereof"—and, if the free exercise of a religion requires the ceremonial use of wine, the prohibition of such use would be, at least, Federally unconstitutional. There is a stack of judicial decisions, however, to the effect that the exercise by the States of their police powers was not limited or impaired by the Federal Constitution except in cases where it carried their sovereign right to be arbitrary; and the conflict between the police powers of States and fermented grape-juice is an undeniable fact. There is still one resort open. The Sixteenth Amendment should not be monopolized by corporations as an anchor to windward against State laws which they deem oppressive. The amendment was adopted for the protection of the meek and lowly; and why should not the meek and lowly appeal to it as well as the strong and haughty? It forbids any State from denying to any citizen the equal protection of the law, and a citizen who conscientiously believes that the fermented juice of the grape is essential to the proper observance of his ritual has equal right to protection in the observance thereof as a citizen who satisfies his conscientious scruples by the substitution of unfermented grape juice.

Iron Money.

For the first time in history Germany will have iron money. Owing to the shortage of copper the government has ordered all the 3 pfennig pieces to be withdrawn from circulation, and in their stead iron coins will be circulated. It will be made of Siemens-Martin steel, and will have a milled edge. "Whether other coins will be converted into iron," says the Vossische Zeitung, "depends on the length of the war. Patriotic Germany will gladly line its wallet with steel at this time, if it will steel our phalanx at the fronts. We do not like iron; but iron is appropriate for iron times."—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

President Wilson is a tactful man. Of course, the anti-suffragists will contend that his preference is on their side, but the others will not care. All the world loves a lover, including the women who want votes.—Philadelphia Record.

Austria's Annexation of Bosnia.

The claim of Serbia to Bosnia as one of the compensations for the suggested cession of Macedonia to Bulgaria recalls the cynicism which marked the acquisition of the province of Austria. "Very badly disguised," remarked Andrássy, coolly.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Traveled To Germany With a Bottle of Peruna

Everybody
Who Is

Catarrh Should Take Peruna

Mr. August Haase, St. Anthony, DuBois Co., Indiana, writes: "I was troubled much with catarrh for several years. I was advised to take Peruna and used two bottles of it, which did me much good. I decided to see my old home in Germany again, after an absence of forty years, and bought a bottle of Peruna to take while on my way. Whenever I would have symptoms of catarrh I would advise every one who crosses the ocean to take Peruna along. I was in Germany nine months, and during that time had no attacks. I was then sixty-six years old. Last winter I took cold and got catarrh of the head. I took Peruna and was helped. Everybody who is troubled with catarrh should take Peruna."

Another letter: "I followed your good advice and took one bottle of Peruna. It helped me, then I bought another one and used only a part of it. I am rid of the catarrh and thank you very much for your good advice. I will always keep Peruna in the house and if I hear of any one suffering from catarrh I certainly will recommend your medicine."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

On Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Sunshine club enjoyed a few pleasant hours at the home of Mrs. Harry Collins in Western avenue. While needlework was the chief pastime a contest was also indulged in Mrs. S. R. Smith being the lucky contestant. Mrs. J. S. HOW TO GAIN BY RELAXATION.

Brain Shouldn't Go on Working After Physical Energy Is Exhausted. Illustration Posed by Miss Henderson.

Restful sleep may be made an established habit; recuperation is a matter of will, and insomnia is developed by failure to control as one might the brain forces to meet the demands of exhausted energy, we are told in article XXV, written for the Advocate development series by Anna Louise Shafer.

By ANNA LOUISE SHAFER.
(Copyright, 1915, by Jas. Keeley.)
Relaxation represents not only a recuperative habit but an ability to store for future demands the energy which would otherwise be dissipated in useless effort. It is estimated that between 70 and 80 percent of the energy we generate we also waste.

Even when we sleep the vital organs of the body have their work to perform—they never sleep. The more completely we can call in the vitality and the tension from the muscles and nerves when it is not needed, the longer we shall be able to maintain a normal condition of the vital organs and the more perfect will be the recuperative effect of rest. Insomnia is developed by permitting the brain to go on working after the physical energy is exhausted and demands rest.

When you retire—after you have taken your stretching and breathing exercises, so that there may be no impediment to circulation because of restricted muscles, and so that the lungs may have a good supply of oxygen to supplant the restricted supply during sleep—then relax at once, as completely as possible, make the body as limp and lifeless as though it were no part of you—just breathe calmly and gently and rhythmically until you drop to sleep. You will awake refreshed, with redoubled energy.

A good breather is always a good sleeper. By a good breather I mean one who has a perfectly established habit of nose breathing and who has always in the room a free circulation of good, fresh air.

This exercise in complete relaxation may be taken at any convenient time to recuperate from an exhausted condition. Twenty minutes of complete relaxation with rhythmic breathing is a wonderful reviver.

Lesson XXV.
Perfect Relaxation: Lie prone, letting the head rest upon its side. One leg may be drawn up at an angle, and the arms spread out in any listless manner—palms up show more complete relaxation. Completely relax every voluntary muscle. The mental idea is that you are a perfectly independent being, apart from your organism, which you control; that your body requires complete rest, and you have ordered that it be taken.

Inhalation gentle, slow and rhythmic.

What Ohio Club Women Are Doing

From the Office of the President.

Growing Interest in Civic Work.

It was the good fortune of the president to attend the opening of the 1899 club at Tiffin.

Mrs. Samuel B. Sneath, Ohio's first vice-president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, was one of the organizers of this splendid club. Its programs have up to the present been purely literary in character, but the club, feeling the influence of the times, is now turning its attention to subjects dealing with civic life, and has adopted the departments outlined by the Ohio Federation.

Mrs. Sneath was present at this opening meeting and gave a most interesting address on "The Power of Organization." The president talked upon "The Working Forces of the Ohio Federation," and Mrs. George Zimmerman, chairman of the Civics Committee of the General Federation of Women's clubs, closed the program.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and the influence of the 1899 Club will no doubt be a strong force for the betterment of civic conditions, under the leadership of Mrs. George Schrott.

The action of the Tiffin club is one example of many which demonstrate the fact that club women are taking a greater interest than ever before in practical questions relating to the government of their own towns.

From Tiffin the president went to Crestline, and attended the regular monthly meeting of the Crestline Civic League, an active progressive organization working to bring better conditions in local affairs.

Mrs. Paul Frey, the president, will head a fine delegation at the Toledo convention.

Honor for Mrs. Samuel B. Sneath.

Mrs. Sneath, First Vice-President of the General Federation, has received the distinction of being one of two women asked to serve as members of the Advisory Committee of the Tariff Commission league.

The object is to carry forward a nation-wide campaign of education which will demand of Congress the creation and permanent maintenance of a non-partisan tariff commission. James J. Hill is the Chairman, and other members of prominence are: Thomas A. Edison, Hon. John Mitchell, Jane Adams, and Ex. Gov. W. D. Hurd of Wisconsin.

"Toledo 1915."
The Conservation Department has will be held in Toledo this year from Oct. 18 to 22.

Dr. Thomas H. Haines of Columbus, Cincinnati Director of Juvenile Research, will address the Convention on "Prevention of Crime."

"Woman's work on the Police Force" is the subject which will be brought to the women of Ohio by Miss Annie McCully of Dayton.

Miss McCully is one of the two policewomen serving under the commission form of government of Dayton, and has achieved wonderful results as a social welfare worker. She was for many years a resident of Newark.

The Conservation Department has been devoting much time to the subject of "Good Roads in Ohio," and has secured the Hon. G. F. Rudisill of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, who will give his inspiring address on this phase of the work.

The Banquet.
The program to be presented at the Banquet has been completed by the toastmaster, Mrs. Charles H. Kumpel of Dayton, and will prove one of the most charming of the entire Convention.

Tickets may be purchased prior to the Convention through Mrs. Howard Radcliffe, 2050 Glenwood avenue, Toledo. Price $1.25.

Daughters of the American Revolution.

Through the courtesy of the Daughters of the American Revolution, tea will be served at the Country Club on Thursday afternoon after the session at the Woman's Building.

Hospitality of the Woman's Association.

The Trustees of the Woman's Association, through the president, most graciously extend the privileges of the Woman's Building to the visiting club women, and express the desire that "all will feel perfectly free to enjoy the advantages of our club house." They also offer the use of the dining rooms for private luncheons or dinner parties which delegates may desire to serve.

Y. W. C. A.

At the close of the session on Tuesday afternoon, the Board of the Young Women's Christian Association will welcome the women of the Convention at the Y. W. C. A. Building.

Musical Program.

The local Committee on Music has arranged a program of exceptional beauty for every meeting and social gathering, giving the visitors the very best that Toledo as a growing musical center has to offer.

In Milady's Boudoir

By Gwen Sears

A perfect hand should be long and delicate, yet firm, with tapering fingers, the tips of which should turn back slightly. There is scarcely any charm of beauty which excels that of beautiful hands. Whiteness is essential, but the finger tips should have a rosy tinge, also the nails.

The beauty of a well formed hand will depend for loveliness of complexion on the circulation. Imperfect circulation gives the blue tinge or red look which some hands have. While good health is necessary for perfect circulation, the hands may be put through a daily exercise which will materially improve the color.

The nails will often mar or make the beauty of the hands. In addition to keeping them scrupulously clean, every morning, after washing the hands, the cuticle which grows up from the bottom and around the edges of the nail, should be pressed back with the towel before the hands are dried. The nail should never be scraped if you would keep the surface smooth and polished. Scraping produces wrinkles which not only mar the beauty of the nails, but prevent the polishing of them. Nails should be shaped to conform to the ends of the fingers.

Before trimming the nails they should be treated with a coating of white vaseline, which should remain on over night. In the morning they should be soaked in very warm water to make them soft and flexible. I know of no better bleach than lemon juice and water which should be applied after thoroughly washing and massaging the hands with suds made from mild soap.

Your Boys and Girls

There is something so fascinating about making a scrap book, that a child can be entertained for hours at a time if you will provide her with the materials that are needed for the making of the book.

First of all cut a number of sheets into leaves, seven by nine inches and then collect pictures of fruits, animals and children. Each must be cut carefully from its background so that with a finely pointed lead pencil the child can reproduce the shape of each animal or fruit on the leaves of the book.

After removing the pattern the child can reproduce the shape of each animal or fruit on the leaves of the book.

After removing the pattern the child can outline each design with the regular outline stitches. Provide her with a box of colored crayons and she will be able to color the things correctly if she is taught to keep a close watch on their original colorings.

General Clem "Captured" by Four Women While Home On Furlough, In War Time, And an Interesting Picture Was Taken

Reproduction of Photograph by Chase & Co.

Back in the early sixties eight girls of this city, school-mates and companions, inspired with patriotism, organized a club which afterwards did much in assisting the sick and wounded soldiers of Licking county by sending provisions and clothing to the hospitals where they were confined. The club was named the W. A. R. and the meaning of the letters has never been divulged even to this day. Those composing the club were the Misses Mary Warner, Helen King, Lucy Jewell, Mary Ocheltree, Mary Preston, Libbie Sprague and Annie Watkins. Afterwards Mary Sherwood and Ella Warner were initiated into the mysteries of the W. A. R.

The club uniform consisted of a military blouse or waist with military trimmings and epaulettes and soldiers cap, giving the members a dashing military appearance. Little Johnny Clem, the Drummer Boy of Chickamauga being home on a furlough was induced to accompany four of the girls to the Z. P. McMillen photograph gallery and pose for a picture. The gallery was afterwards purchased by Mr. George W. Chase in 1865, after he had returned from the war.

In sorting some negatives Mr. Chase ran across the one in which the girls and Johnny Clem had posed for a photograph and kindly allowed the Advocate to use the same. It accompanies this article, the young ladies being Helen King, a daughter of Attorney and Mrs. S. D. King, who afterwards married Edward Spangler of Coshocton, where she resided until her death; Elizabeth Sprague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sprague and a sister of Will Sprague, the well known optician of this city. Miss Sprague married John Hamilton, a coal operator, and she is the only one of the four girls in the picture who is living. The third girl in the picture is Mary Warner, mother of Mrs. Sarah Rosebraugh of this city and a sister of Col. George L. Warner and Mrs. Ella Warner Undergraft of South Third street. Miss Warner married Fred H. Wilson, who at present is residing in Buena Vista street. The fourth girl is Mary Ocheltree, who married A. R. Kennedy, a traveling man of Rochester, N. Y. She was the mother of Mrs. Lynn D. Wilson of Granville street.

The Old Man With The Burro

By Annette Angert

ENOR CORONEL, surrounded by his tenientes, lolled in the shade of the patio, sipping tequila. Outside, in the brazen glare, against the broken walls of the Federal garrison, squatted the troops and their women, smoking cigarettes wrapped in corn husk. Some of the soldados, hardly more than boys, were playing harmonicas. One dramatically tinkled his guitar and around a love song for the senorita from whom the army had separated him. The women were either baking tortillas or combing the hair of their heroes.

"How many of the troops are good for ten kilometers?" asked the Coronel of his Captain.

"They are all fit," replied the Captain, twirling his mustache. "I will see to that." He caressed his sword and laughed oddly.

"It is well, then," said the Coronel. "Tomorrow we will go out and put an end to those rebellious who have been bothering us. Manana, but not today. It is too hot."

Give him back to me and the Virgin will bless you."

"Take her away," he ordered. "My son, my son!" shrieked the old woman manfully. "Will no one help me?" but the group of shadows by the patio wall stirred not.

"Dios, have mercy!" she cried again, as she was carried off.

"The Government need us, but not these dogs," said the Coronel to his Captain. "And it is time we did something to those heads outside the city."

For weeks the Constitutionalists, entrenched in the hills on the outskirts, had laid successful siege to the town, harassing the inhabitants by cutting off the water supply so that only one bucket of vile fluid from the cisterns was allowed each family daily.

The dogs and babies made strange sounds in the hot streets, and the forlorn women rocked over their frijole pots, wondering how long the grain would last. The suffering of the non-combatants was intense. As the Coronel said, it was time something was done to drive the rebels away.

Two hours after midnight the gates of the garrison swung open and a strange procession sallied forth. It was 200 strong, including old men, young men and muchachos. Badly clothed, worse fed, wasted by forced marches and deficient in arms and military stores, they were a sad-looking lot. They carried rifles and over each shoulder was slung a belt of ammunition.

poor which looked like cattle corrals in the moonlight, the procession moved out into the hills. Occasionally several faltered and, throwing themselves to the ground seemed incapable of further effort, but struggled on again at an oath from the comfortably saddled Captain.

Once the old woman, who had faced the Coronel in the patio and pleaded for her son, pushed into the ranks and threw her arms about the muchacho, crying pitiably, only to be thrust aside by the tenientes.

The Coronel was riding moodily at the head of the column when dawn opened over the hills.

"They all die," he muttered to his Captain. "Not one will be spared. We will be victorious."

"What is that?" suddenly cried the Coronel, drawing up his mount.

Vague figures moved in the half-darkness and then came into view. It was an old man and two lean burros, equally dejected looking.

"Halt!" cried the Coronel. "Who are you?"

"I am a lenador, a poor gatherer of wood, senior," said the old man, humbly, from beneath his torn sombrero. "A poor gatherer of wood and his burros."

"Where did you come from?" "From the hills, senior."

"Did you see any soldados?" "Si, senior," in a dull voice; "si."

"Speak, dog! Were they federal or rebellious?"

"I do not know, senior," said the old man meekly. "I could not tell. I do not know very much. El Porfirio Diaz no me ensino. I am but a poor gatherer of wood and they let me pass. They had rifles and belts like you, senior; that is all I know."

The Coronel became alert. "Could you lead us quickly to where they are?" he asked.

"Si, senior, si, if you wish. I will do anything you wish. I am only a poor gatherer of wood."

"Proceed ahead then and direct the way," ordered the Coronel, signaling for the tattered line to continue. Over rocky trails, where colored lizards scampered, the old man led the way, slowly, with bent head and not a word. The sun now hung over the hills like a ball of fire, beating upon the heads of the troops. Presently the old man paused.

"I think they are just around this bend, senior," he said. "I had better go ahead and see. I will return immediately."

He shuffled off, the burros nodding after him. The Coronel lit a cigarette. "In a few minutes we will annihilate the defamers of the government," he said to his Captain. The troops squatted on the ground. The boy, who had been wrested from his mother, was weeping.

Out of sight beyond the bend in the arroyo the old man straightened up. He gave a low whistle and was quickly joined by a group of men who wore red bands around their sombreros.

"Death to the Huastecas!" cried the old man, with the burros and fingered something attached to a wire which curled from the ground at his feet. "Viva Maderista!"

The spot where the Coronel had halted with his troops was changed as if by magic. Shots of flame belched from several points on the hillside, the ground reared and, in the thundering roar that followed, the groans of the dead and dying were lost. Torn limbs were scattered everywhere. Those who were not killed instantly bit at the arms and legs about them in their death agonies. Then silence brooded over the reddened hillside.

shadow in the sky.

"Viva revolution!" he cried. "Death to the murderers of Madero!" said the men with the bent heads around their sombreros. And, puffing cigarettes, they hurried away into the maze of burnished cactus.

Later on, those who gaped at this dismal scene—the bleeding hillside,

"Nothing unusual."

He looked up and down and around and seemed puzzled, and finally asked:

"Didn't feel nuthin' like a earthquake as yo' passed Chapman Corners this forenoon, eh?"

"No. Everybody was quiet at the corners."

"Nuthin' like a cyclone hit you, 'bout the time yo' reached Snicker's Gap?"

"No, sir. You seem to have expected some great calamity to occur down the road."

"I did, sah, and I can't make it out. My son Dan'l got drunk on crab apple cider yesterday mornin' and started off on his mawl to lick the hull State of Tennessee. Didn't yo' see any dead folks in the road as yo' cum along?"

lying alongside the fence asleep. I noticed that some one had pulled out a lot of his hair, and then both his eyes were blacked and his nose was badly skinned. I think he was in a row and got badly whipped."

"Never, sah—never!" exclaimed the man as he straightened up. "My son Dan'l might hev tackled this yere mounning and got the worst of it, or he might hev met up with an earthquake and laid down to rest, but as fur bein' whopped in a fount it don't tun in the family and couldn't hav bin possible. "Not surprised to hear it," was the smiling response of the farmer; "but what are ye goin' ter do with that shovel?"

"Use it for a fying pan," answered the tramp. "I'm a trifle shy on cookin' utensils."

A Trifle Shy.

This was told by Senator James P. Clark of Arkansas, in substantiation of the saying that appearances are often deceiving.

Some time since two farmers were talking crops over a rail fence, when they saw a tramp coming down the road with a shovel on his shoulder. Both gave one look and began to gasp. They couldn't have been more amazed if they had seen a locomotive crawling across a field of plowed ground.

"Look here, Willie," exclaimed one of the farmers, when the tramp came abreast of them. "do you mean to say that you are actually going to get down to work and do a piece of diggin'?"

"Not on your life!" promptly responded the hobo, with charming frankness.

"Not surprised to hear it," was the smiling response of the farmer; "but what are ye goin' ter do with that shovel?"

"Use it for a fying pan," answered the tramp. "I'm a trifle shy on cookin' utensils."

The Carding Bee.
The carding bee lives in holes among stones and roots, making nests of moss lined with wax to keep the wet out, with a long gallery to approach it. The bees find a bit of moss, and several of them get in a row, with their backs toward the nest. The foremost bee then lays hold of the moss, pulls it up with her jaws and drives it with her forefeet under her body and as far toward the nest as possible, when the next bee does the same thing. By this means many tiny heaps of prepared moss are got to the nest, where other bees weave it into the structure.

A Study in Bears.
In Yellowstone park the brown bears retreat hastily from the hotel garbage piles when black bears heave in sight, and the latter in turn promptly get themselves gone at the approach of the silvertips. It is an interesting little social system, established on the primordial basis of fear.

Only Room For One.
Lady—How could you be so foolish as to put anything on that newly painted table? Maid—But I saw Mr. Jones lay several articles there. Lady—What of that? If my husband makes a jackass of himself he has a right to, but you haven't, you stupid creature!

Managing a Woman.
Napoleon, statesman and hero of a hundred battlefields, once remarked, "To bring a bit of a woman of my own family to reason I must needs deliver harangues as long as if she were the senate and the council of the state together."

Wonder of Mechanism.
Half a century ago there was not a watch in existence capable of meeting the requirements of the American railway time service today. Railway time inspection has set the limit of variation from true time for its employees' watches at 30 seconds a week. This means that the balance wheel shall not vary in its motion to the extent of one vibration out of every 20,000. Taking into consideration the various causes of disturbance to which a railway engineer's watch is subjected, the jolts and jars, the changes of temperature, and the magnetic influence incidental to the proximity of large masses of iron and steel, this performance is truly remarkable. That it is possible to secure such accuracy in such a tiny piece of mechanism subjected to those adverse influences is little short of marvelous, and justifies the claim that the watch of today is the most wonderful piece of mechanism that the ingenuity of man has ever produced.—Scientific American.

Prisoners and Spies.
A prisoner of war, according to The Hague regulations, in attempting to escape does not commit a crime. It is his duty to escape if a favorable opportunity presents itself.

It is equally the duty of his captor to prevent his escape, and he is justified in resorting to any means not punitive in character best to secure that end. A prisoner of war may be killed in attempting to escape. If recaptured his confinement may be made more rigorous than before.

For being a spy the punishment is death. To be proved a spy, however, a person must be caught seeking clandestinely, in disguise or on false pretenses to obtain information in the zone of operations of the belligerent, with the intention of communicating it to the hostile party.

No distinction is drawn technically on account of sex, and women spies caught in the act have been put to death.—New York Times.

Criticism.

Many an unpleasant thing needs to be done in a pleasant way. Teachers and parents and people in business life who are responsible for the work of others must from time to time speak in criticism or point out how an improvement can be made in the way of doing things. Such a word of criticism or correction or of suggested improvement can have the effect of being either a shove down or a lift up. The word can be spoken with a disarming smile of reassurance or a hard and discouraging look of condemnation. And the heartening, lifting, smiling word of admonition or suggestion brings a hundred per cent better response than the other sort. It gets the very results that we are after, while the word that antagonizes is liable to defeat the whole thing.—Exchange.

France's National Museum.

The Musee Carnavalet of Paris is also known as the National museum, for it contains objects pertaining to the history of France and especially of the French revolution. The sacredness of antiquity clings to the building itself, which was begun in 1544 and enlarged in 1690 by Mansart, the famous architect of Louis XIV. In 1677 it became the home of Mme. de Sevigne, who lived there for eighteen years and after whom the street is named that faces the principal entrance. Among the contents of this museum are fragments and statues from noted old buildings which no longer exist. There are also a weird portrait done in wax of Henry IV, made the day after his assassination, and an autograph order from Louis XVI, for the defenders of the Tuilleries to cease firing. Things of historic interest are numerous, but none more sanguinary than the copy of the constitution of 1798 bound in human skin.

De Lisle's Tragedy.

An affair of the youth of Rouget de Lisle, author of the "Marseillaise," is told by a French journal. In 1870, when he was about twenty years old, Rouget de Lisle, a pupil of the military school, was deeply smitten with the charms of a young girl of Courbevoie, Mlle. Camille, whose father was a captain on half pay. The betrothal was made the occasion of a family fete, in the course of which some fireworks were to be set off.

The future officer could not leave to others the care of touching off the powder. When the moment came to fire the principal piece, which showed the figure of his well beloved, he approached with a light in his hand, the guests meanwhile taking their places on a terrace opposite him. The piece was lighted, but a pocket badly directed struck the young girl on the forehead, and she died some days after in consequence of her burns.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)
"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known biologist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled, and sallow of face."
"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, and avoid the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble Malt Apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness, though course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'Sentinel' tablets—that's the name and this use is not followed by weakness or excessive laxation. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to improve tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. 'Sentinel' tablets, which may be procured from any druggist, a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blisters, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)
Unightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowels, and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and costs no one need formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and is called 'Sentinel' tablets. It is now being sold by druggists everywhere. 'Sentinel' tablets—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need not get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to see how there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. The action in the morning is so easy, so soothing, and so refreshing that you will feel like a new man. 'Sentinel' tablets are not only the finest remedy for constipation, but for a torpid liver, but also the safest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "Sentinel" tablet as a vegetable substitute for calomel, and a remedy for the extraordinary demand for this remarkable product, it seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.
"Sentinel" tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about a functional change in the habit of eating the "cathartic habit." Also, instead of injuring the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are of course preferred to any other remedy. The violently acting purgatives. Their ineffectiveness is another reason for the popularity of 'Sentinel' tablets. One can procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found.—Druggists Everywhere.

Miss Laura Jones Writes History Of W. A. R. Club of Newark, Which Flourished During Civil War Days

Miss Laura Jones, 120 North Fourth street, a member of the club, was induced to write reminiscences of the W. A. R. club for the Monday Afternoon Talks club, and the Advocate is pleased to reproduce it as follows.

Fifty in the sixties, eight girls not long out of school, organized the prototype of the many clubs that have since come into being in Newark. Our club was to be devoted to the enjoyment of literature and the gentle art of needlework. Instead of working our way down from the old masters of bookmaking to the present, we reversed and began reading a bright little book of the day, "Twelve Miles from a Lemon." At the one denotation the club was organized, the name chosen having been the initials of its way, the letters "W. A. R." the meaning of which we were never, no never to divulge.

The civil war was on, and very soon the club's peaceable and innocent pursuits were dubbed "The War Club," suggestive of all manner of atrocious things. Then the girls dropped their sewing for knitting-needles and soldiers' socks, mittens and comforters, and were asked to prepare hut and bandages, meeting for this at the home of Mrs. Marcus Case, an old-fashioned brick house standing flush with the street, on the south side of West Main street where the Schuylkill factory now is.

Then ambition took possession of the club and public entertainments were given consisting of musical numbers and vaudeville. I remember being sent to the theatre to remember we were especially proud of our living statues, a new idea then. But the most artistic production given was a pantomime, "The Vestibule." Though everyone knows the old story of Cenerela and of the revelation of Christmas eve in the old castle after the wedding, in the midst of which the bride runs laughing away to hide, bidding the merry-makers to seek and find her. Mrs. Warner, the bride, was a vision of loveliness in her white satin gown and as she stepped from a great chest in a deserted room, the lid fell with an ominous click on the spring lock and her face was sealed. Soon the guests with the brilliant bridegroom, Sam, then left, leaving her looking over where the maidens bride. A cool breeze came in, the music gave support and emphasis to the action, at the prima donna of the day, Alva Kitzmiller, or as we knew her, sang the prologue to the two parts of the play, among the young men who cheerfully assumed the role of king of the night. Henderson, who afterwards made a name for himself as a portrait painter in Columbus and Washington, also played Kitzmiller, to whom the club is indebted for the drinking fountain on the northeast corner of the square.

"When This Civil War is Over" was heard to ring at the piano, and another song of the day, and at last it was over and all the hospitals were filled with the wounded and sick and were in dire need of help. A sanitary commission was appointed to look after the conditions and the states were solicited to furnish the needed help. Following the lead of other cities, Newark and indeed Licking county, came nobly to the rescue, organizing a Sanitary Fair, that should last a week. All the churches, churches, and the large room in its rear were lined with booths—representations of different nations. The W. A. R. occupied the northwest corner of the hall, their booth being draped with the national colors and there was a Brother Longfellow, a soldier and sailor in uniform to receive their wares. The week closed with a continental party when all gentlemen and ladies appeared in ancient costumes, and patios and powdered wigs and knee breeches were much in evidence.

When Decoration Day was observed for the first time, the military committee requested the W. A. R. club to meet in their hall to arrange the flowers, to strewn over the graves of the soldiers and to ride in the carriage in the carriages provided. The

A DETERMINED WOMAN

Finally Found a Food that Helped Her.

"When I first read of the remarkable efforts of Grape-Nuts food I determined to secure some," says a Mo. woman. "At that time there was none kept in this town, but my husband ordered some from a commercial traveler."

"I had been greatly afflicted with sudden attacks of cramps, nausea, and vomiting. Tried all sorts of remedies and physicians, but obtained only temporary relief. As soon as I began to use Grape-Nuts the cramps disappeared and have never returned."

"My old attacks of sick stomach were a little slower to yield, but by continuing the food, that trouble has disappeared entirely. I am today perfectly well, can eat anything and everything I wish, without paying the penalty that I used to. We would not keep house without Grape-Nuts."

My husband was so delighted with the benefits I received that he has been recommending Grape-Nuts to his customers and has built up a very large trade on the food. He sells it to many of the leading physicians of the county, who recommend Grape-Nuts very generally. There is some satisfaction in being a real scientifically prepared food."

"There's a reason."

maiden names of the eight which still always come first to my lips were Mary Warner, Lucy Jewell, Helen King, Mary Ocheltree, Mary Preston, Libby Sprague and Annie Watkins. Afterward we were joined by Mary Sherwood, after she had returned from the boarding school, and Ella Warner.

When Mary Preston was led to the altar by Frank McCune, the club, supernumeraries and all, escorted them on their wedding journey, which of course in those days included Niagara, as far as to Mr. Vernon. We often laughed afterwards and thought how they must have fairly hated us for our mistimed attentions. The gift of the club to any member who joined the beneficiaries was a silver plated water service which was useful and showy, to say the least. It is needless to say that I've not yet received mine.

Today only three of the "W. A. R.s" remain to recall the dear faces and the happy times of our long ago; they are Mrs. Libby Sprague Hamilton, Mrs. Ella Warner Undergraff and the one who tells the tale.

GATE-POSTS AT OLD GRAVE YARD ARE COMPLETED

Workmen yesterday completed the erection of the ornamental gate posts at the entrances of the "Old Town" Grave Yard and bronze tablets with these words in raised letters will be fixed to the posts. The material in the posts is all produced in Newark. The concrete foundation stones and the cap stones were manufactured by the Wyeth-Scott company and the brick by Vogelmeier Brothers. The tablets to be placed on the posts are to be made by the Huffman Plating and Metal Works.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
A medical opinion of the ear cannot be cured by any means. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional means. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you are a stumbling block to perfect hearing and when it is closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation is taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. In cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is a chronic condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars to any doctor who cures deafness by the use of our medicine. Send for our literature. F. J. CHILNEY, D. O., Toledo, Ohio.

Are You a Book Borrower?

Have you borrowed a book? Read and return it. If you cannot read it soon return it and trust to your being able to borrow again. In keeping it an unreasonable time you may be keeping some one else from the pleasure of reading it. Look over your shelves and see what you have there that should be retained. The man who should borrow so little as a quarter of a dollar from a neighbor and fail to return it would not invite respect. Yet it is quite as bad not to return a book or magazine. Who has not had anguish of heart to have some choice, dearly prized volume returned, soiled or torn with pages lacking? That "Tom went his inksstand" or the baby got hold of it, or similar excuse does not mend the matter. The borrowed book should be protected from such accidents. What was worth borrowing is certainly worth returning. Certainly it should be clear in your mind that it is not yours, but the property of another.—Milwaukee Journal.

COSTUMES

AT A. W. C. A. POVERTY PARTY
WERE "RAGS," AND "TAGS" AND "MISERABLE GOWNS."

Sprightly Misses Met Together Friday Evening and Had an Enjoyable Time.

Some came in rags and some in tags and some in velvet gowns to the Poverty Social at the Y. W. C. A. Friday night when about 85 girls of all ages and sizes froliced together, playing Dog, Ball, running relay races, including a particularly funny costume race and just having a jolly good go-together time.

If prizes had been given, Marie McManus would surely have taken first in her poverty stricken rags, and Mary K. would have taken another in her perfect characterization of Aristocratic poverty. These and the many others, including Charlotte Steman one of the Association Home Girls who appeared in the style of costume later worn in Chicago by Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and Miss Porto caused an endless "scream." The I. V. Bible class served the refreshments—ice cream cones.

Registration for class work were taken and many signed up for classes to begin in the week of the 18th.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

SALTS, CALOMEL, PILLS ACT ON BOWELS LIKE PEPPER ACTS IN NOSTRILS.

ENJOY LIFE! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, SICK, HEADACHY AND CONSTIPATED.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept alive. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

A Queer Fish.

One of the queerest of old creatures is the mud skipper, or jumping fish, which inhabits the large rivers of India and the neighboring seacoasts. At ebb tide these little fishes leave the water to hunt for tiny crabs, flies, etc., and their strong pectoral and ventral fins, aided by their tail, enable them to move about easily and to climb upon trees, grass and leaves.

With their huge eyes, seeming to project far out of their sockets, they can see as well on land as in the water. They progress in short, quick leaps, effected by sharply bending the rear third of the body to the left and suddenly straightening it. In color they are usually light brown, with dark bands, though they sometimes appear light green. They are easily caught and are much used in Burma.

Long Words.

While our language does not contain such long words as are found in some other tongues, nor so many words of unusual length, still we have several that are awfully long for conversational purposes. We have "philoprogenitiveness" with twenty letters, "intertextuality" with twenty-one, "intercommunicability" with twenty-two, "disproportionableness" with twenty-three, and transubstantiation and "contradistinctibility" each containing twenty-four letters. An effective little word is "synecdoche," as it manages to compress eight syllables into seventeen letters. The longest monosyllables contain nine letters, and there are four examples, "splotted," "squelched," "strengths" and "stretched."

When Coins Were First Made.

Certain passages in the "Iliad" of Homer would lead to the inference that coins of brass were struck as early as 1184 B. C. Tradition affirms that the Chinese had bronze coins as early as 1120 B. C. But Herodotus, "the father of history," ascribes the "invention" of coins to the Lydians, about nine centuries B. C., and there is no satisfactory evidence that coins were known prior to that date.

Optimistic.

Hall-Blythe is a pretty optimistic character I fear. Well—I should say so! If he failed in business he'd thank heaven he had his health, if he failed in health he'd be glad he had his business, and if he failed in both he'd say there was no use having one without the other.—London Telegraph.

Asiatic Turkey.

Asiatic Turkey had a civilization thousands of years ago. The interior of that country is populated today by farmers to whom modern knives and forks are unknown. The spoons they use are of wood, and each family makes its own.

A Narrow Escape.

"What! You a widow, dear cousin?" "Yes."

"Well, that's a lucky escape for me. Do you know, I nearly married you once."—Exchange.

Take Your Choice.

From Sir John Lubbock we take this ennobling thought: "You may see in a shallow pool either the mud lying at the bottom or the image of the blue sky above."

The Colds of Mankind Cured by Pines!

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand.
